STORM LEAVES TRAIL OF WRECKAGE

Nineteen houses were unroofed and 32 damaged when what has been described as "probably a whirly-whirly", hit part of Altona about 3.15 pm on Thursday.

"The miracle was that no one was hurt," the mayor, Cr. Les Crofts said yesterday.

"The force of the wind lifted a boat seven feet out of the water, tore out trees and sent debris in all directions. But no-one was hurt.

"And that is the blessing," Cr. Crofts said.

He was on his way back from Perth by plane when the storm struck Victoria.

"How the pilot made it to the airport I don't know. People were being sick from the buffeting the plane got. I've never been in anything like it, and I travel quite a bit."

Cr. Crofts said the first inkling he had of the damage done in Altona was when he drove down Millers Road.

"That was about 7 pm and all the lights were out. I got home (to Civic Parade) and June, my wife had the kerosene lamp going, and candles lit.

"I heard the news that Altona had been badly hit by the storm, and immediately went to the civic offices to see what I could do."

Dr. Crofts helped organise the borrowing of tarpaulins from the Victorian Railways, and then spent until about 1 am touring the area with police and Mr. Gordon Stirling, MLA.

NO DAMAGE ESTIMATE

No estimate of the total damage done by the storm has been made.

Chief Inspector John Root, of St. Albans police, who was in charge of the emergency operation, said the damage was impossible to estimate.

"We have asked that anyone affected on Thursday afternoon contact the civic centre to give their assessment of the damage so that we can get an idea of the total cost," he said.

"You see, a lot of people fixed things themselves, others got their insurance companies out to do the job.

"A lot of people had water coming up into their houses from underneath, and we had no actual contact with them. That wasn't our province."

Footscray's civil defence unit, under the leadership of Cr. Kevin Shorten, worked covering unroofed houses with heavy-duty tarpaulins from 4 pm until 3 am Friday.

CONDITIONS SHOCKING

"That was something hope we never have to do again — but that's what we're here for, to help people," Cr. Shorten said yesterday.

"The conditions were shocking. At some places the boys, 19 of them, were working up to their knees in water and driving rain."

Cr. Shorten said the wind which hit Altona could only be described as a whirly-whirly. "We don't get tornados in Australia," he added.

He said houses were unroofed in a very narrow path across The Esplanade, Blyth Street, Grieve Parade, Civic Parade, Rush Court, Kearney Avenue, Lowe Avenue, Hammond Street and Charles Road.

"A few people were on holidays when the wind took the tiles off their roofs. They could be facing quite a few problems with water damage this week, although we got tarpaulins over the top as quickly as possible.

"The water will have got into the ceilings, and the owners weren't at home to drain it out," he said.

Mrs. Barbara Stiedl, of Hammond Street described Thursday's storm:

"I looked out the window, and saw everything flying in the air — tiles, trees, bits of wood.

"Then suddenly it stopped. I went outside to see what had happened, and I found a whopping great hole in our roof.

"There were pieces of wood in our garden, and tiles everywhere."

Cr Shorten told the Star that only tiled houses had been affected by the wind. Galvanised iron and fibro-cement roofs were left in place.

"The wind just seemed to get under the tiles, creating a vacuum," he said.

Above: Mr. Burk Stiedl (left) surveys his Hammond Street house after civil defence workers roofed it with canvas. A Footscray civil defence team of 19 spent all night protecting damaged houses with tarpaulins.

32 houses damaged

● This was a typical scene at Altona on Thursday afternoon, when cars broke down trying to get through flooded streets. Anyone affected by the storm damage is asked to contact the Altona Civic Centre.

● Mr. Stiedl drilled holes in the ceiling of his house to allow the water from the storm to drip into containers.

Council NO to five factories

Five factories proposed for land in Malton Court, Altona, have been rejected by Altona Council.

The Board of Works sent the factory application to the council for comment. All five factories would be on Lot 8.

Councillors, meeting in their general-purposes committee, agreed that the plans do not comply with council siting requirements.

Car parking arrangements are also insufficient, councillors said.

No barriers

No barriers will be erected at the intersection of Pier and Blyth streets to restrict pedestrian access to the roadway.

The city engineer, Mr. Ralph Simmons, reporting to the council on the barrier suggestion, said he did not recommend the move.

"If barricades were provided as suggested, pedestrians would not be able to cross either Pier or Blyth streets direct, as is now possible.

"No lines could be provided to guide them across the roadways, because where stop signs exist, no other markings are permitted on the roadway", he said.

Mr. Simmons is to have a traffic count taken at the intersection to see if it qualifies for pedestrian lights.

School ovals

School ovals used by the community will be mown and fertilised by council engineering staff.

Watering and topdressing will be the responsibility of the Education Department, councillors agreed last week.

bility of the Education Department, councillors agreed last week.

Footpath plan

The city engineer, Mr. Ralph Simmons, will report on the cost of constructing the footpath along the frontage of St. Paul's College in Blackshaws Road.

Floodlighting

Altona Central Football Club and Altona Council may share the cost of floodlighting the northern oval of Crofts Reserve.

The club needs floodlights for practice matches.

Club officials asked for floodlights. The cost of two steel poles and underground wiring is about $2600.

The council is prepared to meet half the cost.

A final decision has been deferred to await reports from Government bodies and the council's finance committee.

Model went off course

This is the original architect's half-model of one of the first propeller-powered steam tugs to operate from Williamstown.

We can't tell you where it is, except to say it's in the old part of Williamstown, for the very obvious reason it shouldn't be there.

The tug, the James Paterson, was built in the United Kingdom in 1901 by J. P. Reynoldson and sailed under its own steam to Australia, where it spent its working life at Williamstown.

The James-Paterson helped thousands of ships in and out of the Port of Melbourne until it was taken off the run in the early 1960s.

Tugs operating from Williamstown when the Paterson was attached to the fleet were run by James Paterson and Company.

Steam-powered paddle tugs made up the bulk of the fleet until the sleek James Paterson arrived.

Land to Libs 'like bullion to Biggs'

Having the Liberal Party in control of land was like having Ronald Biggs in charge of bullion, the Labor spokesman on Housing, Mr. Tom Edmunds, MLA (Ascot Vale) said yesterday.

The development of Geelong confirmed the State Government acted forever in the interests of land developers, Mr. Edmunds said.

"The Geelong Regional Commission Bill was reported by the State Labor Leader, Mr. Holding, to give power to a tiny group of land barons," he added.

They would determine the land available and the price, Mr. Holding had said.

Western-suburbs people knew well the Liberal policy of protecting private land interests, Mr. Edmunds said.

An example was the Truganina land issue, involving more than 400 acres, on the Altona-Werribee boundary.

"Mr. Hamer announced this as a 'Preferred development' area some time ago," Mr. Edmunds said.

The same applied to the adjoining Notia Estate of 300 acres.

"The private land, given Mr. Hamer's green light, is going full steam ahead.

"The land-buying public know all about that; they are asked to fork out about $16,000 for a block."

Mr. Edmunds added the State Government's side of the preferred development area bargain had not been acted on. The State-owned section lay idle.

The Fraser government had recently announced an inquiry into land and housing prices, but a Victorian public, used to Liberal statements on cheap land, must be sceptical about this.

"But since the Bolte record, on Truganina at least, was better than the Hamer record, there's always hope the Fraser record will also be better than the Hamer record," Mr. Edmunds said.

The Geelong zoning propositions, with their big bounty for wealthy landowners and heavy burden for buyers had only come to public notice after an investigation by representatives of "The Age".

"The fruits of their gleanings were a sorry tale of local Liberal Party pressures," he said.

"Then there was a similar The Age 'Insight' exposure of $4 million public money being handed under State Government auspices to land speculators as sheer profit on their Melton and Sunbury purchases."

The next group committee meeting will be held in the Scout hall tomorrow (Thursday) at 7.30 pm.

All parents of Scouts and Cubs have been asked to attend, as next month's meeting will be the election of officers.

Daryl strikes silver

● Ten-year-old Daryl Brown, of Hammond Street, Altona, is a proud lad — he won the 1500-metre walk silver medal at the recent Victorian Little Athletics Championships. The events were held at Olympic Park, and Daryl came home second in the Under-11.

He showed two of his little-athletics trophies to mates at Altona West Primary School

Death of Mr. Holt

Mr. William Ernest Holt, a long-time resident of Williamstown, died at Williamstown Hospital last Friday.

Mr. Holt, 88, had lived in Williamstown nearly all his life.

After marrying he settled in Perry Street and lived there for close on 60 years.

He and his wife, Nell, would have celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary later this year.

Mr. Holt was a foundation member of the Williamstown Elderly Citizens' club, which is joined shortly after retiring.

He was a keen indoor bowler at the club and won the club championship at least 10 times.

Before retiring, he worked at the railways for 18 years as a builder.

In his earlier days, he was a professional cyclist with the Williamstown club and still competed when he was in his 40s.

Mr. Holt is survived by his wife, and children, Ida and Fred.

Funeral arrangements were handled by Nelson Brothers.

Better western transport

The Minister for Transport, Mr. Rafferty, has approved the recommendations of a transport study conducted in the western suburbs.

Mr. Rafferty said priority would be given to the electrification of the railway line to Werribee.

The lines to Sunbury and Melton were also listed in the Government's forward planning.

The transport study recommended:

- An experimental dial-a-bus or mini bus service in St. Albans North.
- Tram concessions for students of Footscray Institute of Technology.
- A railway station near Furlong Road, St. Albans.
- A co-ordinated bus service in Sunshine-Deer Park to follow duplication of the area's railway line.

Trash, treash on Saturdays

Altona's trash and treasure market will open on Saturday as well as Sunday for the next three months.

The market, on the corner of Grieve Parade and Geelong Road, Altona North, has been limited to Sunday trading since its opening in December.

The Altona Council has now given permission for Saturday trading between 8 am and 6 pm for a trial period.

Mr. Sharp, who runs the market, applied to the council to allow two-day trading because, he said, stallholders were hard to get for only one day.

He said all other markets in Melbourne offer two-day trading.

Altona's planning and parking officers inspected

No action will be taken to improve public transport for the handicapped, young or old people until the Ministry's planning study is completed.

WGH given $390,000

The Western General Hospital is $390,000 better off thanks to gifts from three western suburbs sources.

At a special dinner organised by the hospital's board of management, the Footscray-based James Flood Charity Trust handed over its assets of $350,000.

This means that the hospital now owns the trust and will be its only beneficiary.

Real estate agent, Mr. Stan Payne, will give $25,000 from the Edward A. Green Charitable Foundation of which he is the sole trustee.

And the Footscray Lions' Club promised $15,000 to help pay off the hospital's $75,000 laser surgery.

The Lions' Club had promised the money over three years but at last week's dinner Lion president Mr. Jack Withers handed over a cheque for $7500.

Hospital board of management president Mr. Eric Farnsworth said the hospital was indebted to the three donors.

He said that over the past 25 years, Footscray Lions had given $51,700 to the hospital. Mr. Payne had given $40,000.

Mr. Farnsworth called the James Flood Charity Trust handover "most generous".

He said that the man who set up the trust, director-general manager of James Flood Pty. Ltd.,

Mr. Harold Paynting, would administer the trust for the hospital.

Too big

The chairman of James Flood Pty. Ltd., Mr. David Petley, said the trust had become too big for Floods to handle.

"It should be a community effort," he said.

The trust was established in 1968 as a public-relations and charity exercise.

Its assets include books about vintage cars which are sold in limited editions throughout the world.

Mr. Paynting said that copies of the first publication, which sold for $12 eight years ago, were now bringing more than $400 each.

Floods there

Special guests at the hospital dinner were Mr. Jim Flood and his son, David, who are both directors of James Flood Pty. Ltd.

Mr. Jim Flood is the son of James William Flood who set up his motor-body building works in Melbourne in 1907.

The firm is now the biggest of its kind in Australia.

Limit pets breeding

Family pets should be spayed or neutered, Altona councillors said at their meeting last week.

They were discussing letters from two people critical of conditions at the Lost Dogs' Home in North Melbourne.

Altona Council is a major contributor to the home, in Gracie Street, which regularly collects stray dogs and impounds them.

If the dogs are not collected by their owners, they are destroyed within days.

Mrs Patricia Farnell, of Springvale, suggested that councils should give more consideration to the control of over-breeding and wandering dogs.

She said a higher registration fee, like $45 for neutered dogs, would help solve the problem.

The money raised through the fees could go towards setting up a low-cost neutering programme, and alternative shelters for stray animals, she said.

The other letter came from Mrs Joan Walker, secretary of the Animal Rights movement, who criticised inadequate facilities and treatment of animals at the Lost Dogs' Home.

Mr. Syd Fell, Altona's town clerk, told councillors on Tuesday that the State Government Law Revision Committee was presently preparing a report on the use of the Lethanair to kill unwanted animals.

The device, he said, was a decompression chamber, and was used by the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, allegedly because it was cheaper than injections.

"It is apparent that unless steps are taken to overcome an already acute community problem, governments in the future will have to spend more to control straying and unwanted animals," Mr. Fell said.

He added that the council should notify the law revision committee of its concern for the present problem, and its support for spaying and neutering of family pets.

Mr. Fell said animals kept for breeding brought a higher registration fee, "and appropriate controls can be enforced".

Cr. Steve Clement moved that Mr. Fell's suggestions be adopted and sent to the committee.

Beta Sigma art show

The annual three-day Beta Sigma Phi art exhibition will be held at Williamstown Town Hall this weekend.

This will be the 13th exhibition to be held by the Williamstown chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, an international women's organisation.

Money raised over the three days is passed on to various causes, and this year it will go to the Noah's Ark Toy Library for handicapped children, and to the Shirley Challenor Anti-Cancer Fund.

The show will begin at 2.30 pm on Sunday and run until 9 pm on Monday. It will open from 10 am to 9 pm on Tuesday from 10 am to 8.30 pm.

No entry fee is charged, and catalogues cost 20c.

Last year paintings, sculpture and craft-work valued at more than $8000 were sold at the exhibition, and the chapter is hoping to sell even more this year.

Camera members sought

Williamstown Camera Club has invited new members to take part in its activities.

The club meets in the Methodist Church Hall, Pasco Street, at 7.45 p.m., on the first and third Thursday of each month.

Information about the meetings can be obtained by calling Mrs. M. Johnston (398 1978) or Mrs. M. Wyatt (314 8091).

A spokesman for the club said yesterday it had been proved meeting and exchanging knowledge and ideas was the best way to learn about photography.

Lecturers and competition judges had found this as they visited clubs.

The Williamstown club was small in numbers but enthusiastic, the spokesman said.

Band uniforms go to Essendon

Uniforms previously worn by members of the Altona City Band will be given to Essendon.

The Essendon City Band, which recently reformed, asked for the uniforms once used by the now-defunct Altona band.

The uniforms have been held at Altona civic offices just in case the band ever get together again.

They need regular maintenance. However, former members of the Altona band believe that the group is not likely to reform "in the foreseeable future".

Essendon Council, in its letter to Altona Council on the band's behalf, said the uniforms would be altered to fit Essendon band members.

Cr. Steve Clement, seconded by Cr. Ted Hubble, successfully moved at the last general purposes committee meeting, that the uniforms be given to Essendon.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Hospital like top hotel

SIR, — It would give me great pleasure if you would allow me space in your widely read newspaper to thank the sisters, nurses and aides at the Williamstown hospital. Their dedication and devotion to the very elderly is a joy to see.

I was a patient in the public ward myself, in traction and on a diet, but I am still one of the "oldies", and can never forget the kindness of the girls.

I "dips me lid" to them all, including the cleaning ladies who always asked after our health.

I don't think the Southern Cross Hotel could have given us better service. Bless you all LILLIAN REID (An Aberdonian), Hamner Street, Williamstown.

Junior footy HQ appeal starts

An appeal has been launched for cash to build a pavilion for Williamstown Junior Football Club.

The appeal comes after talks between the club's executive and representatives of Williamstown Council.

The council is negotiating on the club's behalf with the Education Department, for permission to build a pavilion near Williamstown Technical School oval, in Bayview Street.

Over 150 lads play under WJFC's colors, but at present have no headquarters.

Williamstown solicitor and former Williamstown Football Club senior player and committeeman, Mr Tony Hannebery launched the appeal with a donation of $100.

Then publican David

Lyons and his clients at the Prince Albert Hotel raised $319.40.

Appeal administrator, Mr Les Goding, says this has got things away to a good start and gives hope of an early start on building a pavilion.

People wanting to make donations can contact Mr Goding, on 397 7738.

THE Arnold Palmer METHOD

WATCH FOR THE DIVOT

"Keep your eyes on the ball" may be good advice in baseball, but it doesn't necessarily apply in golf—at least, not all the time.

Many duffers have a tendency to jerk their head up before their swing is finished in order to follow the path of the ball. You've got to keep your head steady until you have driven the club-head solidly through the ball.

You can check this easily on your iron shots. After every iron shot (from a normal lie), watch for the divot mark to appear before you raise your eyes to follow the path of the ball.
